BULLFROG'S MINING
PROGRESS DURING WEEK

General Manager Rothschild of the Homestake-King, shipped two bricks of gold bullion this Wednesday afternoon by Wells-Fargo express, says the Rhyolite Herald. The shipment represented a partial clean-up of two weeks' run at the 25-stamp milling plant, which is treating 75 tons of ore a day. The bullion is worth about $8,000.

The Homestake-King mine in the Bullfrog district is growing daily in available ore supply.

Never has the management been so sure of success and long life for the mine as it is today, now that the mine is being worked along practical lines.

There was a sudden turn in Homestake-King affairs about three months ago, when it was announced that the mine and mill had closed down after only a sixty-day run. The stock took a big tumble, and there were all sorts of rumors in the air. Some said the ore was not there, some said the management didn't know how to get it out and some said some other things of an uncomplimentary and unassuring nature.

Homestake-King became a very doubtful proposition, and the wisecracks were looking for another such an announcement as was handed out on Gold Bar, to the effect that there was nothing doing.

But such an announcement did not come. On the contrary, the directors came here, authorized a thorough sampling of the mine, made a change in the mine management and started with a new page in the company's history. The result has been entirely satisfactory up to date.

The East End
Work continues on the Beatty east-tom mill.

There is an effort on foot to boom a townsite in the Pioneer-Mayflower section, and there is also talk of getting a spur in from Springdale to the camp.

Feike & Sweeney are completing a wagon road to their lease on the Keystone property, where they have 100 sacks of ore averaging $65 in gold, silver and copper. This ore was taken out at grass roots, and will be loaded with some Diamond Queen ore in order to make a full car.

John Hoffman has completed his contract on the General Bullfrog in Gold gulch, having sunk to the seventy-five-foot level, from which a crosscut twenty-two feet was driven. The drift shows low grade ore for twenty feet.

The latest report from those interested in the Telluride section is that although the Salt Lake deal is off money is being raised in Denver to develop the properties. It is expected to have the camp in active operation soon.

Springdale Mill

It is expected that the milling plant of the Springdale Mining and Milling company will be ready for commission within two or three weeks, now that the last shipment of machinery has been received.

During the past week an eighty-five horse power engine has been received, completing the equipment. The water mains have been laid from the springs, and as soon as the engine is installed the mill will be in shape to treat ore.

The plant has a capacity of about forty tons per day, and will work out a new method of ore reduction, inaugurated by Messrs. Newcomer and Rankin.

The mill is located a few hundred feet from the tracks of the Tonopah & Tidewater railway at Springdale, and is thereby brought in touch by transportation with the entire district, while the Pioneer and Mayflower mines are less than three miles away.

Tramp Will Lease

Superintendent Charles Garden announces that leases will be granted by the Tramp Consolidated company on its Bonanza mountain estate. Several applications have been received, but no leases have been signed up. There is an extensive area in which leasers may work at a profit, if the company sees fit to lease out those portions of the ground.

The shaft has reached the first 100 feet below the tunnel level and crosscutting is in progress.

T. & T. Group

A. A. McKnight has returned from Riggs, where he inspected the work in progress on the T. & T. group. Prospecting is being done to determine the best place to sink. Some fine ore has been opened in shallow cuts.

May Consolidated Banks

A deal is pending for a consolidation of the First National Bank of Rhyolite and the John S. Cook & Co. banking house of this city. B. L. Smith and Mr. Cook were in consultation here the first of the week. Definite announcement is expected to be made within a few days.

Zeigler Bullfrog

The recent strike in the Bullfrog Pioneer has stimulated interest in the Crystal Springs and Mayflower sections of the camp. Among the Goldfield brokers who are gladdened by the strike is Walter Whitmore, locator of the claims, now owned by the Zeigler Bullfrog company, which he promoted. Mr. Whitmore is confident that that section will be the best in the Bullfrog district.

PAST WEEK'S WORK AT CAMP
ROCKEFELLER SHOWS RESULTS

(Special Correspondence.)

Rockefeller, Nov. 26.—T. G. Cockings of the Rockefeller group has left for Goldfield with samples of ore pronounced by local experts to be sylvanite. He will have them assayed and return to camp in about a week.

Adolph Neagher is sinking rapidly on the south side of the White Elephant and fully expects to be able to show a good ledge inside of the next thirty days.

A. V. Brook of Butte, Montana, is on the ground and is examining the workings of the Double Triangle. He is also making a grand round-up of the camp. Mr. Brook is greatly pleased with the showings of milling ore and believes that Rockefeller will shortly develop into a high grade camp.

Tom Kelley has found a ledge in South Rockefeller that carries as high as forty per cent copper and four ounces silver.

Messrs. Hubbard & Tate of the Little Johnnie mine have just struck a nice streak of hornsilver. They recently took over the property of Bailey Brothers.

Thes haft beink sunk by George Dean is now down fifty-five feet. Assays as high as $22 are being obtained.

Walter Cronin is getting fine indications in his tunnel. It is being run on a property adjoining claim No. 9 of the Cockings group.

AN OLD BLAIR MINE

IS AGAIN PRODUCING

A shipment of 30 tons of ore is being prepared at the old McNamara lead mine. The metallic values run to about $65, in gold, silver and lead. The latter runs 50 per cent, the silver being 24 ounces, while the value in gold is only about $1.50 per ton.

The McNamara, from which the shipment is taken, is an old producer, lying about 18 miles south of Blair, and on the north side of the Palmetto range of mountains. It is the property of the O'Meara Bros., who recently disposed of the Valcaldia to the Newhouse syndicate. A lease was taken on the McNamara recently by Norman Campbell, formerly foreman for the O'Mearas, and who has some half dozen men at work, and will continue operations through the winter. The property is developed by means of a tunnel, which is in some 600 feet, and from which a winze was sunk and new ore reserves opened.

At present the mine is somewhat inaccessible, and supplies and ore have to be carried in and out by pack animals, but a new road of a mile or less in length, is under way, and will permit of team and wagon being taken direct to the mouth of the tunnel. There is plenty of timber for all purposes close at hand, and a spring of fine water near

Mr. Campbell expects to send out at least a carload per month during the winter, and by early in the year will greatly increase the quantity.

MUST STAY IN PRISON

An important matter was decided in the Esmeralda county district court this week when the judgment against Frank E. Everett was upheld by Judge Langan on appeal. Everett killed Foreman Malone of the Mina railroad shops and, after having been sentenced to prison for life, made appeal on the grounds of insanity. The case has attracted considerable interest throughout the county and state.

LEFT FOR THE NORTH

Several of Goldfield's mining men and prospectors have taken their departure for the northern portion of the state for the purpose of examining mineral bearing lands along the line of the Central Pacific. By a recent court decision it is now possible to locate claims on ground which the railroad company will, in a few weeks, be enabled to patent, unless proof of mineral is established.

TRAIN DERAILLED

The Los Vegas & Tonopah train due to arrive in Goldfield Wednesday evening, did not arrive until Thursday morning, due to a derailment eleven miles north of Rhyolite. The private car of President Parker of the Florence Goldfield Mining company was attached to the train, but it met with no damage. Mrs. Lockhart and daughter were among President's Parker's guests.

LOOKING GOOD

J. L. Kalfus is in receipt of news from Rawhide that is of an encouraging nature. He is president and general manager of the Black Butte company, on which a lease is operating and getting excellent results. Two other leases have been let and work will begin at once.

LEASES:---Five leasers are now at work, employing about forty men. The royalties from leases are 25 per cent.

BUILDINGS:---Permanent buildings have been erected, among them an assay office.

SHIPMENTS:---One shipment has been made to the Nevada Goldfield Reduction works and the mill returns on this ore were $720 per ton. This was taken from near the surface.

WORK:---Three tunnels are now being run in to catch the vein at depth and from phenomenal surface returns it is fair to expect wonderfully rich ore bodies will be opened up. Two shafts are also being sunk.

SITUATION:---The Royal Flush is in close proximity to the Old Oriental Mine, tied up by litigation, from which the richest block of gold ore ever found in the United States was taken out. It is now in the Smithsonian Institute at Washington.

BREYFOGLE MINE:---Miss Jeanette Weir, Secretary of the Nevada Historical Society and Professor in the Nevada State University, says the Royal Flush is the Lost Breyfogle Mine, in attempting to discover which many lives have been lost and thousands of dollars spent.

Breyfogle's description conforms to the description of the Royal Flush.

Tools recently found in the breast of an old tunnel (now on exhibition in rooms of Nevada Historical Society in Reno) were the tools in use in Breyfogle's time.
